Cookies

2. Cookies are information about your visit to a website. When you visit a website, a cookie (a file containing information) is stored on your computer, which on one hand ensures ease of use and speed, but on the other hand also represents an intrusion into privacy or the possibility of later targeted advertising.

Contents of the cookie

3. A cookie contains basic information about your visit to a specific website. It first records the name of your computer or your name, as well as the name of the website visited. The contents of the cookie are stored on your computer in a dedicated directory. By double-clicking the file, you can obtain more detailed information about the visited website, including the date and time of the visit. All this information is also stored by the operator of the website you have visited. In this way, various details about your computer hardware and internet usage can be obtained.

4. Cookies can be deleted, disabled, or used conditionally through certain settings. By default, browsers are set to accept cookies, while rejecting cookies that do not originate from the domain displayed in the address bar.

5. KO-DAM Ltd., as the administrator of the domain PSYCHOTHERAPY-LOGOTHERAPY.COM, is committed to protecting the data and privacy of website visitors to the best of its abilities. In order to prevent unauthorized access to or disclosure of collected data, maintain the accuracy of personal data, and ensure their proper use, we implement appropriate technical and organizational measures to safeguard the data we collect.
